V ATAMÁN

An old vermouth kept in the Barbadillo cellars since the '70s because this type of wine was no longer of commercial interest. The years of ageing in casks caused part of the alcohol to evaporate, giving rise to a unique rarity in the world of vermouths, so we decided to bottle part of it.

CONCENTRATED, SWEETNESS

BALANCED, UNCTUOUSNESS...

Atamán V is a reminder of what it once was, a witness to the fact that something of that old wine remains in the Atamán we are bringing back to the market. In short, it is concentration, balanced sweetness, unctuousness... It is madness on the nose, where even the most irreverent will be able to discover an evocative aroma in the enormous complexity it holds.
